Imagine that we could stop the relentless passage of time, that we could slow it down, or speed it up. Do not imagine any more. Come with us on our voyage through time … David Segura and Pepa Martín have found the drawings of a space-time machine and together with Manolito, Albert Einstein's assistant, travel to the seven wonders of the world to figure out what science has not yet been able to explain. They will discover that the seven wonders of the world are really one: the one that has driven and built each one of them.
In 2010, David Segura and Pepa Martín went to Oulu, Finland for work, beginning a creative process of merging classical dance and break dance. On their return to Spain they decided to continue researching this method, and to create their own company and shows. They also continued their professional training in Spain, London, Finland and Cuba. They belong to Danza y Psicología SL, located at the Happy Style Dance School, which is devoted to merging both art forms in shows and therapies for all types of audiences.
