Queen Carrot is starting to ripen and thinks she must be replaced in her reign by some other food. The choice is difficult: it must be healthier, and more complete. Vegetables, legumes, dairy products and many others will be interviewed to highlight their properties and freshness, and try to occupy the desired throne. Finally, the Queen realises that it is not a single food that should rule, but rather a representative of each group in order to have a tasty and balanced reign. A musical show on the importance of a healthy diet, in which the youngest members of the family will learn to classify food in an entertaining manner.
Acuario Teatro is one of the oldest theatre companies in Spain. After 44 years devoted exclusively to the production and distribution of shows geared at children and families, it has very specific distinguishing features, which are the key to its success. Original music, creative and amusing staging, the dissemination of values, etc., allow them to continue telling universal classical stories, as well as their own, all over Spain.
