A moving flamenco zambomba from Jerez that takes us to the roots of Andalusian culture with a performance full of music and passion. For the occasion, the Manuel de la Curra flamenco company brings together renowned artists to celebrate Christmas with Tía Curra and her family. With the atmosphere of Jerez and the festive spirit at its peak, this zambomba is a unique experience that will immerse you in the essence of flamenco and the Andalusian tradition.

Manuel de la Curra (Jerez, 1979), who lives in Malaga, comes from a family linked to the traditions of flamenco. He is a singer and guitarist who formed part of the company of Antonio Gades, has sung for the dancers La Lupi, La Lupi, Carrete de Málaga, Rafael Amargo, Karime Amaya, José Maya, Juan de Juan, El Yiyo, María Juncal, La Repompilla, Belén López, Alfonso Losa, Pepe Torres and Miguel 'el Rubio', and has been a member of the bands of artists such as Diego Carrasco, Carrasco Family, Isabel Pantoja, Diana Navarro and La Cañeta, amongst others.
