Cantando la Navidad is the Christmas show of Joana Jimenez, with whom we will travel all over Andalusia with the Christmas carols that have marked our lives. These popular flamenco songs are part of the Andalusian folkloric essence and the special elements of the traditional zambombas. Accompanied by five flamenco musicians, the singer from Seville will perform an ample selection of the most popular carols and others less well known with the different styles of flamenco songs, including rumbas, bulerías, tangos and fandangos.

Joana Jiménez is one of the most noteworthy voices of present day flamenco and Spanish ballads, or coplas. She began demonstrating her artistic talent at the age of four, and was discovered by a larger audience in 2008 when she won the first edition of the musical competition Se llama copla, produced by Canal Sur Televisión. She has
