“Clown of words, director, producer, dramatic, writer, optimist, father...” That is how Manu Sánchez describes himself, as he continues to work on a new show which will soon bring him back on stage with all of his astonishing wisdom, sarcastic humour, and lucid and ever surprising capacity of analysis of everything around us.

A show with which he promises to lay himself bare and to laugh as if there were no tomorrow, now that he is more aware than ever that sometimes there may not be a tomorrow.

He will tell us, with absolute spontaneity, that there is life before death, and that we should make the most of every moment as if it were the last.

A proclamation of sincerity, with a more genuine and intimate Manu Sánchez than ever on stage.
